Adecco Luxembourg focuses on proximity by strengthening its business expertise and getting closer to the border candidates

7

SMEs, ETIs, Large Groups and many companies are concerned by the transformations in the job market and the growth of digitalization. As a result, companies have difficulties to find the skills they need. To overcome this shortage and prepare for the jobs of tomorrow, Adecco strengthens its agility by focusing on the proximity with their candidates and customers: on one hand with a strengthened expertise on the business lines, and on the other with a more strategic geographical presence to get closer to the frontier workers.

Already the leader in recruitment in the Luxembourg market, Adecco continues to optimize its network of branches, which already started in recent years through organization and expertise by business line.

In 2010, in Luxembourg-City, the branch offices "Service Industry & Finance" and "Hospitality" were created. In 2017, a branch office dedicated to permanent recruitment opened its doors in the center of Luxembourg-City and a second "Industry" branch office in Belval, dedicated to the trades of steel, welding and metalworking machining.

As of January 1, 2019, the Industry consultants merged in the southern and eastern border areas to strengthen the teams already present.

"We believe that the first competitive advantage of companies is human capital. With the new market's requirements, companies are changing and they need strong business expertise to meet their challenges. By structuring our expertise by business lines in our branch offices, we gain in efficiency and can better respond to market demands, both on the client and on the candidate side." commented François Dauphin, Sales Operations Manager of Adecco. "

The strategic positioning at the border areas makes it possible to get closer to the candidates and to simplify their journey, while ensuring a strong presence on the industrial regions of the country.

The merging of the Adecco's consultants ensures a business expertise in order to provide quickly more expert profiles.
