BSP announces roll-out of Legora's Generative AI platform

BSP is pleased to announce the implementation of Legora, a market-leading Generative AI platform tailored for legal professionals. Following a rigorous selection process, BSP, one of the leading independent law firms in Luxembourg, has decided to adopt Legora across the organisation. This move highlights the firm's strategic commitment to embedding cutting-edge AI technology into the core of its legal practice.

This adoption positions BSP at the forefront of legal technology integration, driving efficiency and allowing lawyers to focus on higher-value, strategic advisory work.

As part of this collaboration, the rollout will be guided by both BSP's Knowledge team and Legora's expert legal engineers, to ensure adoption is seamless, tailored, and widespread.

Looking ahead, Legora and BSP will continue to work closely to identify opportunities to co-innovate, refine how teams integrate Legora into their workflows, and broaden the areas where Legora delivers fast, lasting impact.

"This implementation acknowledges the significant role technology plays in enhancing our lawyers' ability to deliver a more strategic and efficient service to our clients," said Alain Steichen, Managing Partner at BSP. "Adopting Legora is a clear step forward in maintaining our competitive edge and service excellence."

Jonathan Williams, Head of France at Legora, said: "Our collaboration with BSP exemplifies our commitment to working closely with leading legal professionals to drive meaningful AI innovation. The successful pilot phase demonstrated how our platform can seamlessly integrate into sophisticated legal workflows, and we look forward to continuing this partnership to deliver lasting impact across their practice areas."
